hrysanthemum Wedding.

ery beautiful wedding took place home of Mr. and Mrs. . NH. Mcey, of Woolrich, Pa., Nov. 18th, in the evening at 8 o'clock, ZELLA eldest daughter was united in riage to Curvin Bonner of Avis, by the Rev. Mr. Derstine, of Carl, Pa.

romptly at eight o'clock to the ains of the wedding march played y Ford Graham, the bridal party was ushered into the beautifully decorated parlor by Fredway Shaff and Bond Graham. Miss Anna McCloskey, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Bonner, sister of the groom, Maid of Honor, William Bonner, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was given away her brother Lloyd McCloskey.

A bountious wedding supper was served to 76 invited guests. The bride received a great many useful and handsome wedding presents. After an extended wedding tour to eastern cities, the bride and groom will make their home at Avis, Pa., where Mr. Bonner has accepted a position with the N. Y. C. R. R. Co.

The following out of town guests attended the wedding: Mr. and Mrs. Bonner, parents of the groom, Mrs. Heckman, Mrs. Margaret Heckman, Miss Jessie Heckman, Reed Heckman, Dr. Meek, Wm. Emery and Sryus Johnsbaugh, of Avis, Pa.; Miss Jessie Blair, of Duboistown, Pa.; Mrs R. G. Shaffer and daughter of Bennezette, Pa.; Mr. A. T. Swarwood, Mrs. C. W. Dickson, Miss Bernettie and Ermie Bennett, of Sinnamahoning, Pa.; Mr. W. S. Swartwood, of Emporium Pa.; Vera Maggs, of Lock Haven, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. McCloskey and family were well known in Cameron county as they resided for a number of years at Sinnamahoning, where Mr McCloskey was employed by Barclay Bro's in their general store.

Bermuda Visitors.

Last Monday morning, our popular and obliging "Hello Girl," Miss Lena MacDonald and Miss Christy MacDonald were joined here by the Misses Bessie Mildrew and Rose Forster, of St. Marys and Stella Nittrow and Frances Maher, of Kane, and departed for Williamsport, where they were received as guests of the Gazette and Bulletin. Mrs. Wm. MacDonald is chaperone of the party.

Monday was well spent taking in the sights of Williamsport and with Theatre parties, at the Family Theater and the Lycoming Opera House. Tuesday was enjoyed in Philadelphia and New York City. The bapyy party expected to sail from New York City yesterday (Wednesday) at 10;00 a. m., and to arrive this afternoon (Thursday) on the Bermuda Islands.

Miss Lena MacDonald has indeed earned a vacation, as a more obliging and dependable telephone operator cannot be found. Miss Christy MacDonald has a host of friends everywhere and is very popular with all, while with Mrs. Wm. MacDonald, as chaperone, the party is complete as her amiable and gentle manner will win the esteem of all. Our best wishes for a bon voyage and pleasant are time with them.

Returned Home.

Mr. O. N. Miller, of Mahanoy City, Schuylkill county, who is manager of the Locust Mountain Powder Company of that city, returned to his home last Sunday evening after enjoying a hunting outing at "Camp Hemlock" on Clear Creek, with a jolly party of Emporium's mighty hunter—Jas Wright, Chas. Cummings, F. F. Hilliker and others. Everybody had an enjoyable time and Mr. Miller left with a good impression of Cameron county and her citizens. Mr. Miller is a genial, wholesouled gentleman and makes friends where ever he goes. While here he met two old-time friends—J. F. Sullivan, of Huntley, and Ex-County Treasurer Cummings. For several years Mr. Miller Miller was Station Agent at Delano, for Lehigh Valley R. R., and later paymaster on the Mahanoy and Hazelton Division and during that time Mr. Sullivan was his assistant. He called up J. F. S., on wire last Sunday and he came up on evening train accompanied by his wife to meet him. Mr. Miller and Mr. Cummings were school mates. Mr. Sullivan who is the PRESS correspondent at Huntley, says it sounded like old times when he called up J. F. S. on the wire. Mr. Miller retired from railroad business about two years ago and took up the powder business which he is handling successfully.

A Pleasant Party.

A parrty intended as a surprise was tendered Miss Frances Leadbetter, on Saturday evening, Nov. 21, 1908, at the Allen Russell farm, by a few of her friends, in honor of her birthday. "Duckie" got wise to the plans and was ready to receive her guests. An elegant supper was served.

Religious.

In the First Methodist Episcopal Church, next Sunday morning, the pastor will preach a Thanksgiving sermon, and the offering will be for Veteran Ministers. Preaching in the evening also.

A Valuable Cow Killed.

A valuable cow belonging to E. J. Rogers was killed by a freight train last Monday afternoon. Mr. Rogers has more than his share of trouble, being confined to his home with a severe attack of typhoid fever.

MRS. F. A. LEWIS AND FAMILY.

Emporium, Pa., Nov. 23, 1908.

DEATH'S DOINGS

LEWIS.

FRANKLIN A. LEWIS, aged 75 years and seven months, died at his residence one West Creek, Oct. 14th, 1908. The funeral took place on Monday, Nov. 16th, interment being made at Rich Valley Cemetery. Deceased leaves a wife and eight children to mourn his death, viz: Mrs. J. R Schoonover, Missoula, Mont; Mrs. Geo. Hoffman, Mrs Herbert Lewis and Mrs. Clipson Martin, of Emporium, and Linden, Elden, Eva aud Dalziel at home.

Death has again invaided the ranks of our oldest citizens aud removed a familiar figure from our midst, where he has resided all his life, greatly repected by all. We knew friend Lewis well and intimately and always respected him greatly. He was of a kind, gentle and amiable dispositon. The bereaved wife and children have the sympathy of the PRESS and our citizens generally. Deceased was one of the most reliable Republicans in Shippen—one who could always be depended upon.

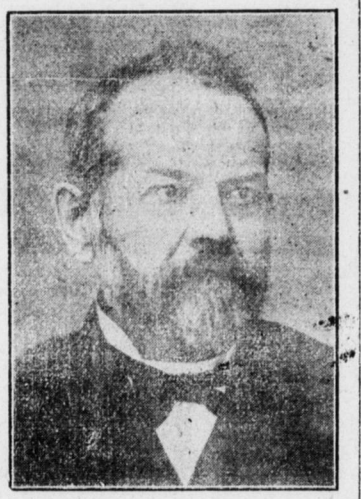
HENRY EDGCOMB'S FUNERAL.



HENRY EDGCOMB.

The funeral of our old and greatly esteemed friend, Mr. Henry Edgcomb, (an extended obituary having appeared in this paper last week we do not deem it proper to repeat the same,) took place last Friday afternoon from the family residence, corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets. Numerous relatives and friends paid their last mark of respect to the dead neighbor and friend. Rev. J. F. Anderson, pastor of M. E. Church officiated and delivered a few well timed remerks.

The casket bearers were R. M. Oververhiser, M. C. Tulis, H. L. Burns, M. M. Larrabee, Jos. Newton and J. F. Parsons, old friends of the deceased.

A quartet composed of Messrs. H. C. Olmsted, I. K. Hockley, Jay P. Felt, W. S. Sterner, suplied the singing.

The following relatives from out of town were in attendance: E. F. Edgcomb, (brother) Costello; Raiph C. and and Joseph, of Galeton, sons of J. O. Edgcomb, a deceased brother.

HILLYARD.

Our community, during the past week or two has certainly experienced a larg number of deaths. Last Thursday night the grim messenger claimed our respected citizen, SIMEON HILLIARD in his 75th year, who has resided on Fifth street for many years. The death was a great shock to our citizens—few realizing that his illness was of a dangerous nature.

Deceased was born at St. George, N. B., (his parents having moved from Boston there), Feb. 13, 1833. He was married to Miss Charlotte Spafford, Oct. 25, 1857. Eight children were born to this union, four having died in infancy. The living children are Mary R, Jessie, (wife of B. L. Spence), Sarah and Alice, (wife of Jason B. Loucks. Mr. Hillyard came to Williamsport in 1865, going from that city in 1876 to Winterburn, where he engaged in his occupation of mill wright In 1883 he moved to Emporium and engaged with C. B. Howard & Sons, as mill-wright and remained with that firm until the shut down of the old mill, when he worked for the powder companies as carpenter—the last three years faithfully serving the Keystone Powder Co., up to within four weeks of his death.

Always industrious and saving he accumulated some means and invested the same in Emporium Powder Co. No citizen of Emporium was more highly respected than our friend His word was as good as gold.

The First Baptist church, of which he had been a consistent member for over forty years, loses one of its main pillars. When he came to Emporium he brought his letter here and when the society was organized he was one of the incorporators. He served as Deacon up to the time of his death. He was a grand, good man and the writer hereof deeply deplores his demise, although it is to a peaceful, better world. We shall remember his friendship as long as life lasts. His bereaved, widow, now in her 81st year, and his devoted children can point with pride to his spotless life.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral of deceased was held from the family residence last Sunday afternoon and was largely attended: Religious services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Bogue, of Antrim, Pa. The casket bearers were: H. C. Olmsted, Chas. H Felt, Henry Auchu, Mark Ellis, Alfred Loucks and Chas. E. Crandell. The floral offerings were very beautiful and appropriate.

The following relatives and friends from out of town attended: Mrs. R S. Zierden (sister) DuBois; Mr. and Mrs. (niece) Frank Patchell, Hicks Run; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Neidlinger, Ridgway; Joseph and William Marshall, Sterling Run.

FUNERAL OF CAPT. SAMUEL SHADMAN.

The funeral of the late Capt. Samuel Shadman, was held from Emmanuel Episcopal Church last Friday morning at 11 o'clock. A great many friends of the deceased were in attendance at the Church The funeral party left on the noon flyer for Williamsport, where interment took place in Wildwood cemetery. Rev, J. M. Robertson accompanied the funeral party to Williamsport and officiated at the grave.

A committe from Emporium Masonic Lodge, composed of Thos. H. Norris and Rev. W. H. Allen, accompanied the remains to Williamsport.

LOGAN.

MISS INEZ ESTHER LOGAN, aged 13 years and three months, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Logan, who has been seriously ill with double pneumonia and typhoid fever, died at the family residence on Wood street, Monday afternoon, about five o'clock. Although the patient had every attention that money could procure, and efficient nurse and medical attention, her death came like a clap of thunder to the grief stricken family. INEZ was an exceedingly bright and good young lady, and greatly beloved by her parents and associates, who looked upon her with pride. In her home she manifested the ability of an older person and was a great help in the home. She was a scholar in Miss Caroline Lechner's school, where her death is deeply deplored. Hor school-mates have made an offering of a floral design in testimony of their regard.

The funeral of the deceased will be held from Emmanuel Episcopal Church, this (Thursday) afternoon, at 2:30.

Some Bears.

Mr. A. J. Barclay and Jos. B. Council, of Sinnamahoning, while in Emporium on Monday, attending the funeral of Hon. L. Taggart, reported a large number of bear killed in that section already this season--36 bear and six deer. What is the use in going to Miss, or Texas for a bear hunt when bruin are so plenty in Cameron county.

DEATH OF HON. LEONARD TAGGART.

Death has removed a prominent figure from our midst. Hon. Leonard Taggart, who has been in poor health for several years, battled manfully to the last and his wonderful vitality sustained him until last Friday, about one o'clock, when he peacefully passed away, surrounded by his faithful wife, children and near relatives. While we attempt to place in print our impressions of this friend, whom we have known almost 41 years, our thoughts go back to the good old days in Emporium when deceased was the life of every public gathering—business, social and political. Our first recollection of Mr. Taggart was in the great political battle of 1868—he a man and we not yet a voter—when we worked and battled for the success of the G. O. P. He then, in company with J. P. Felt, conducted a drug store in the Phelps Block. All through life we have been on social visiting terms, although we have, during the latter years, been wide apart politically, he taking strong sides, with the independent and democratic party, while we have just as honestly in our belief as he honestly pursued his course. We enjoyed his visits, and many times enjoyed an hour or so in "chewing matches" over factional questions, politically. "Len" Taggat was peculiar, and upon occasions he often agreed with us and upon our peculiar (?) political ideas. It is gratifying now, that he has passed away, that he believed we have honestly fought for what we believed to be our duty as a Journalist and a Republican. No larger hearted man ever lived than he and his well known honest intentions held his friends, who were legion, loyal to the last. The very large gathering of friends at his funeral is a strong endorsement of his worth as a citizen and friend. During the long years that Mr. Taggart was identified with the business interests of this county, from the time of his first venture to the day of his death, he was fair and honorable in every capacity.

Mr. Taggart took a lively interest, when his health permitted, in the material advancement of Emporium. He was one of the incorporators of the Emporium Powder M'f'g Company and was a director and Tresaurer at the time of his death.

THE FUNERAL.

The large and commodious residence, on Fourth street, where he passed so many years with his happy family, was the scene never to be forgotten. Hundreds of relatives and friends gathered there last Monday afernoon to honor the dead and sympathize with the bereaved family. Friends from all sections of the county called personally to convey their sympathy to the afflicted family. Promptly at three o'clock the Masonic Lodge, the deceased having been a member since 1860, marched to the home in a body and took their places in the presence of the dead Brother, amidst brnked flowers, emblems, and set pieces in great profusion.

Rev. J. F. Anderson, Pastor of M. E. Church delivered a short talk, which we produce entire viz:

"Complying with the wishes of the friends the services will be brief. Our few remarks will be largely of a personal character, reviewing somewhat the life and labors of our deceased brother, with a few words to the friends.

Leonard Taggart was born in Wharton, Potter county, Pa, in the year 1845. In the year 1846, when he was but a year old his parents came to Emporium, which at that time consisted of only a few houses, and where he ever afterward resided, covering a period of sixty-three years.

In the year 1861, when but sixteen years old, he enlisted in the army, but on account of physical disability was discharged a year later, only, however, to re-enlist in the year 1864 to continue in the service of his country until the close of the war, when he returned home with an honorable discharge. He was one of three brothers who served in the Union army during the Civil War, the other two sacrificing their lives to preserve the life of the nation, Samuel dying of wounds received in the battle at Five Forks, and D.W., also dying in the army. In honor of this last named brother the Emporium Post was named—The Lieutenant D. W. Taggart Post of the Grand Army of the Republic. So we see that our deceased friend belonged to a family of patriots, and died an honored member of this Post.

For a period of eight years he was postmaster in this town, and also had the distinction of having served one term of two years in our state legislature, which is evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by the citizens of Cameron county.

For five years he superintended the extensive lumber interests of Mr. Goodyear, and was associated for some time also with other gentlemen in the lumber business. In the year 1886 he engaged in the pharmacy business in Emporium, continuing in the same without interruption to the end of his life.

One very commendable habit of his life was to promptly take care of his creditors. I was told by a business man of the town that Mr. Taggart paid his bills every Monday morning.

But while our friend was a patriot, an honored citizen and a careful and systematic business man, he was not so wholly absorbed with the things of the world as to have neglected interests of higher character. Along with all other duties he tried to do his duty to God by living a religious life. When a young man he connected himself with the Presbyterian church and continued a faithful member. In his church he occupied for many years the responsible position of Sunday school superintendent. At the last communion service conducted by brother Johnston, possibly two months since, he with members of his family, received the emblems commemorative of our dying Lord.

In the year 1872 he was married to Helen M. Cole of Jersey Shore, and to this union were born three children—George Cole; Mrs. Byrd Leona Deike; and Miss Flossie Faye; all of whom with four grand-children are with us to-day.

Around the dying bed of our brother were gathered, wife, son and daughters on last Friday, just after the meridian of the day, when the live ebbed away and the spirit took its departure to the spirit world. All these witnessed the peaceful departure of this man of God—the departure of faithful husband a kind and loving father.

God bless and sustain all these bereaved ones and at last bring all home to be reunited in our Father's house in heaven."

Miss Grace Lloyd very sweetly sang a solo, which was rendered very beautifully and impressively.

The following relatives and friends from out of town were in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. (daughter) Deike, Kittaning, Pa.; Mr. Clarence Wamsley, (nephew), Mrs. Flora Ryan, (sister), Mrs. Allie Wamsley, (sister), Ridgway; Mrs. Van Slyck, (niece), Shingle House; Mrs. Loomis Andrews, (cousin), Coudersport; Mrs. Carson and Mrs. Scofield, (cousins), Austin.

For Rent.

A good, six room house; modern conveniences, central location; immediate possession. Apply at PRESS office.

A Great Success.

The Mountaineer Hose Company Ball at the opera house last evening was largely attended and was voted one of the most pleasant affairs ever given in Emporium. The delightful music by the Germania Orchestra, of Lock Haven, was heartily applauded. They furnished up-to-date music and plenty of it—and cheerfully too. "The best ever here" was the verdict of the dancers. The committee are to be congratulated

E. W. Gaskill Severely Injured.

Last evening, about seven o'clock, while our popular citizen and friend, Mr. E. W. Gaskill, general manager and treasurer of Keystone Powder Company, was walking over a R. R. culvert, near the works, missed his footing, falling to the creek bed, a distance of ten or more feet, head foremost, severely cutting his head and spraining his back. His son Willis, who was with him, called for help and removed the injured father to the home of Walter Gibbs, at the same time 'phoned for Dr. Smith, who hastened to the injured man and found his head severely cut and bruised and back sprained. The Dr. is still in attendance this morning and reports to the PRESS that while Mr. Gaskill is severely injured he hopes by careful care to bring him out all right.

Mr. Gaskill is manager and treasurer of the Keystone Powder Co., and has daily for years passed up and down the railroad and this is the first mishap.

The accident caused much anxiety on the part of the many friends of the injurred gentleman. We sincerely hope he may rapidly recover, for Cameron county needs Everet W. Gaskill.

Painfully Injured.

Chas. Jones, who resides on Portage street, met with an accident last Saturday that at the time seemed triffle, out now is causing him great pain and anxiety. While visiting in F. D. Leet's law office he picked up an old revolver and while handling the gun it discharged, the ball entering the left hand, between the joints. Dr. Bush was called and probed for the small ball but thus far has failed to locate it, the X-ray even proven frnitless. The Dr. informs us that he does not consider the gentleman in danger of further complication, even should the ball not be fund. We hope our friend may recover from the injury promptly.

Our Foot Ball Team.

Although everybody knows that Emporium has a fine foot ball team it may be well to give our readers a line up of these young athletes as they are to play with Johnsonburg on Thanksgiving Day: Left End, Swartz; Left Tackle, Eckstein; Left Guard, Carroll; Center, C. Vogt; Right Guard, Farrel; Right Tackle, Extrom; Right End, Munsell; Quarter Back, Ellis, (Captain); Left Half Back, H. Vogt; Right Half Back, Ritchie; Full Back, Sprung. The reserve players are also of splendid material: Eschbach, Left Half Back; Nangle, Right Tackle; Rentz, Right Guard; Foster, Quarter Back; Woodward, Full Back.

Without a doubt the boys will give a good account of themselves on Thanksgiving Day as they are of Emporium's finest.

Half Back Eschbach is also catcher for the Emporium Base Ball Team and has received an offer to play in the Empire State League this season but we dislike to let him go. X

More Hunters.

Hon. C. C. Cumbler of Steelton, Pa., (one of the Members of Assembly from Dauphin county, accompanied by J. W. Morrow, Harrisburg and L. T. Wandress, of Norristown, Pa., spent last week in Emporium and vicinity, hunting for game. The gentlemen were fairly successful, getting nineteen pheasants and nine rabbits. Hon. Mr. Cumbler is an heavy stone dealer and conducts a quarry in Dauphin. He is an extensive user of dynamite and says Sinnamahoning dynamite is good enough for him. Mr. Morrow is extensively engaged in the hardware and plumbing business in Harrisbarg, while Mr. Wandress is a commercial traveler. All three gentlemen are bright good fellows—such as does you good to meet. These gentlemen were very much pleased with the people they met in Emporium and say they never met so many good fellows as they did here and promise to return here next season for their outing. Hon. Josiah Howard and Mr. Henry Auchu sent E. L. Mason out with them on one trip up main stream, with Mose Minard as cook and teamster. The gentlemen voted both Messrs. Mason and Minard a pair hard to beat.

The PRESS sanctum was honored by a call from these pleasant gentlemen, accompanied by Mr. E L. Mason, an all round good woodsman, hunter, farmer, expert band saw filer and a true gentleman 365 days in the year. We enjoyed the call very much and congratulate our Dauphin county friends upon falling into such good hands as Messrs. Mason and Minard.

Held Up.

On account of the exhaustion of the appropriation the County Comuissioners are compelled to refuse payment on fire warden and bounty vouchers, until such time as the fund is replenished. See notice in another column. County Commissionees Clerk, W. L. Thomas, informs the PRESS that the county has paid over $4,000 fire warden and $375 bounty certificates up to date. No doubt the State will make an appropriation when the legislature meets next January.

Sudden Death at Hulings.

Special to the Press:—

Samuel Clark, aged 65 years, who resided at Hulings station, just east of Sinnamahoning, on the line of P. & E. R. R., died at 1:30 p. m., Sunday, Nov. 22nd. Mr. Clark seemed in the best of spirits. His people heard a noise in his room during the night but thought it of no importance. When he was called for breakfast he did not respond so his grand-daughter, Mrs. Ray Campbell, went to see what was wrong she found him unconscious. Every effort was made to awaken him but without avail and he ceased to breath at 1:30.

Bank at Eldred Fails.

BRADFORD, PA., NOV. 23.—The Eldred bank, of Eldred, McKean county, has failed and the announcement has caused consternation in the town. The bank was a private institution and was owned by parties residing in Eldred, Meadville and the west. The capital stock is $100,000

The directors assert that the depositors will receive dollar for dollar. It is said the liabilities are about $160,000, with assets of about $140,000. It was reported that the cause of the crash was due to the overdrafts made on the institution by one of the officers of the bank.

A Card Party.

Mrs. J. D. Logon very pleasantly entertained at Bridge Whist, at her home on Fifth stret, last Thursday afternoon. Those present were: Mesdames L. R. Felt, T F. Moore, Geo Metzger, Jr., F. G. Judd, G. S. Allen, E. E. Forbes, T. H. Norris. Wm. Howard, E. H. Hughes, C. J. Goodnough, Jasper Harris and Guy Felt. Mrs. Hughes was the winner of first prize.

Paid His Taxes.

Mr. Chas. Papazzoni, chemist at Keystone Powder Works, called on the PRESS last Saturday evening and desired us to correct the statement, made in Council minutes relative to his not having paid his taxes. The gentleman being away from Emporium doing some work at another plant, the tax collector asked for exoneration. When apprised of the fact Mr. Papazzoni promptly called upon Mr. Glenn and lifted his tax receipt. He is a reliable young man and meets his duties.

Hat as Badge of Slavery.

With the ancient Greeks the hat was simply an appurtenance of the traveler. The free citizen preferred to go bareheaded and only put on his broad-brimmed petasus for protection against the sun when on a long journey. The uncovered head was part of his dignity, for the slaves and workmen wore always a kind of pointed skull cap.

Ancient Mining Center.

An Egyptian mining center—probably worked as early as 2500 B. C.—was in the eastern desert, between the Red sea and the Nile. The lately discovered remains described by C. J. Alford include small irregular stone huts, arranged in groups of two or three, to towns large enough for 1,000 men.

As to the Suffragette.

As some criminals are said to "see red" and go for their enemy, so some women when stung with a political idea, however little urgent, practical or immediate it may really be, "see red," and go blindly for that one aim by any means and in spite of any objection by friends or foe.—Frederic Harrison.

These Women!

A woman gets one dozen pint bottles of beer, ten five-cent cigars, a loaf of rye bread and a dime's worth of cheese and bologna, calls it a Dutch lunch, invites 15 men as a surprise on her husband, and then leaves them to themselves, expecting them to get real tough.—Atchison Globe.

Bible in Native Dialect.

A missionary deaconess in Liberia has edited in native dialect a book containing the ten commandments, the apostles' creed, the doxology and a number of the best-known hymns. The book is not only the first published in the dialect, but the first successful attempt to make it a written language.

Snakes as Ghosts.

The Zulus and other primitive peoples regard snakes as ancestral ghosts, the notion arising partly from the uncanny nature of the serpent, partly from its fondness of living near graves and then crawling into houses—as though it might be revisiting an old home.

Every Man a Debtor to His Profession.

I hold every man a debtor to his profession; from the which as men of course do seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves, by way of amends, to be a help and ornament thereunto.—Bacon.

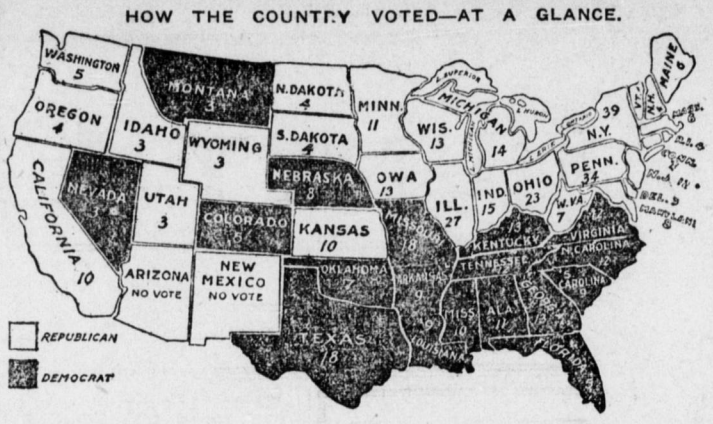
HOW THE COUNTRY VOTED—AT A GLANCE.



MANDATE IS CLEAR

TRUE MEANING OF THE REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

People Have Expressed Themselves in Favor of the Policies of President Roosevelt, and the Party Must Obey.

The Republicans will have a working majority of 40 or more in the lower house of the Sixty-first congress. There is a loss of 15 or 25 in comparison with present conditions. Some of those who have not been returned have been opponents of the president's policies. Others who have been criticised for their stand have been re-elected. A more careful examination of the completed returns is needed before judgment can be rendered in individual cases.

Nevertheless, there is no doubt that the voice of the people the country over has been loud in indorsement of the principles and ideals for which the present administration has stood. The decision at the polls may be taken as a mandate to congress to provide for the carrying out of the spirit and the letter of these policies. The successful candidate for the presidency was quick to recognize the meaning of the popular vote. "It is your administration that this victory affirms" was the response to the congratulatory message from the White House. The members of the majority party in the new house should be equally prompt in their appreciation of the same truth, no matter how they may have lined up in past discussions.

The great triumph of Mr. Taft would have been sadly marred had the people, in their congressional districts, tied his hands by the election of a Democratic house. That they have returned a substantial Republican majority is a clear expression of their desire that the president they have elected shall have the hearty support of congress in carrying forward the measures already initiated and in putting into execution the policies favored by him and to which the party has pledged itself in its platform of principles.

With president, senate and house in accord the way is open for the realization of the expressed desires of the people. They have indicated their approval of the Republican party. That their faith and trust have not been misplaced will be shown in coming months, as one after another of the great problems now in the public mind are rightly solved.—Chicago Tribune.

Gov. Hughes.

The news of Gov. Hughes' victory was received with profound satisfaction throughout the United States. Democrats as well as Republicans should be pleased by it because the victory is a victory for decency, for morality and for law.

Hughes has been a great executive. Back of his extraordinary abilities a splendid will has been at work. He has gone on unflinchingly from one reform to another. He has succeeded in correcting abuses that crept into the management of powerful corporations; he has placed those corporations under public control; he has accepted the challenge of the gamblers and all their long train of vile associates, and he has given them a drubbing that they will not forget in many a year.

Could there be better proof that the best politics, even from the standpoint of expediency, is the politics that is inspired by devotion to principle? Hughes' triumph will act as a tonic. It will dismay the big and little grafters in all the states, give heart to reformers everywhere and add to the prestige that the governor has enjoyed because of his admirable record and remarkable achievements.

Our Naval Men.

"One cannot live with these younger officers without feeling that the sudden growth of their navy or some other cause has given them an extraordinary military spirit such as you meet with only in epoch of a nation's life. . . . Annapolis men get the habit of hard work at the academy. They are passionate for high scores for their divisions and ships at target practice."—London Times.

The Pacific fleet is rousing the world to the fact that Uncle Sam's navy is as good in fact as it is on paper.

People Are with Mr. Taft.

The result of the election proves that the sober-minded majority looked over and through the trivial and irrelevant issues of the campaign and judged Mr. Taft on his actual achievements and on his own merits. It proves that whatever defects might be found in Mr. Taft's attitude in some matters, the serious judgment of the people found in him and in Republican principles the way of prudence and of safety.

PARTY BREAKS ALL RECORDS.

Republicans Have Longest Continuous Power in Country's History.

When the Republicans carried the country in the recent election they broke all the records in length of continuous sway in both branches of congress simultaneously, says Leslie's Weekly. In the Jefferson-Madison-Monroe era the Democrats held unbroken control of all branches of the government for over a quarter of a century, but for a large part of that time theirs was the only party in the country. The Hartford convention of 1814, with its imagined treasonable designs, killed the federalist party, and the Democrats had the field to themselves until the rise of the National Republicans in John Quincy Adams' administration and the advent of the Whigs in 1834, in Jackson's second term.

In the more than three-quarters of a century which has passed since two big parties have been struggling constantly for the supremacy, 14 years has been the longest time which any party has held power without interruption in both senate and house at the same time. The Republicans did this in the civil war and reconstruction period.

Beginning with the entrance of Lincoln into office in 1861, the Republicans held control of both branches of congress continuously until 1875, when the Democratic house of representatives, elected in 1874, in the middle of Grant's second term, went into power. Beginning with the election of 1894, in the second half of Cleveland's second term, the Republicans have controlled both branches of congress to the present day, or 14 years.

The present stretch of Republican sway is far more notable than the earlier one was. During a large part of the time between 1861 and 1875 many states in the Democratic quarter of the country were unrepresented in congress and the Democrats of the rest of the nation were to a large degree demoralized and discredited. In the present period, on the other hand, the Democratic party, while often discordant, has had the solid south behind it and has been active and aggressive everywhere.

The Republican victory in 1908 means only 16 years of unbroken sway in the presidency, as compared with 24 years in the Jefferson-Monroe period and also 24 in the Lincoln-Arthur area; but the 16 years of uninterrupted control which it gives the Republicans in both branches of the national legislature is unparalleled in our annals.

Republican Victory Means Much.

The victory is the greater for Republican principles and for Mr. Taft because it was won in the face of a profound demoralization of organized Republicanism in several great states. It shows the power of recuperation that the Republican party possesses when compelled to face a real emergency. The victory was won against an opposition, united and confident, as it has not been in three years preceding national contests.

The fact that it was so won, and won in spite of adverse conditions affecting the welfare of millions of voters for which the Republican party could not deny a large measure of responsibility, proves on the one hand that historic Republicanism still justly has the public confidence, and on the other that the American people are not ready to yield to insensate radical agitations, no matter how plausible and no matter by which party they may be advanced.

Bryan Has Been Answered.

Mr. Bryan appealed to the people, and he has received his answer. He had not a single sound proposition upon which to stand, and he has done more than any other one individual to make the people see the fact. If Mr. Bryan represented policies concerning which there was a divergence of view between the parties, there would be less ground to read the verdict of the people against him. But he represented views that were not divergent, but absolutely opposed to the views of his adversaries, to the experience of the country and to the judgment of sound thinkers.

Taft's Fitness Well Shown.

No man elected president in the history of our country has ever demonstrated in advance more clearly than Mr. Taft his exceptional fitness for the entire round of presidential duties. He has shown what he can do. He has already faced responsibilities as great as any he is likely to be called upon to face as president. In every case he has "made good."

Viewing the president of the United States as merely "the country's hired man," the conclusion seems to be that the country does not think Mr. Bryar would be worth a salary of $50,000 a year in that capacity.

TWO STATES ARE QUARANTINED

AS A RESULT OF THE FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE AMONG CATTLE.

NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA

Are Placed Under a Ban by the Department of Agriculture and by the Authorities of Each State.

Buffalo, N. Y.—For the first time in their history the East Buffalo stock yards are under the ban of a quarantine. Because two carloads of cattle delivered in western Pennsylvania, which were found to be infected with foot and mouth disease were traced to East Buffalo, the federal and state authorities have placed a ban on this market pending a general cleanup of the yards and a further investigation of the outbreak of the disease so much dreaded by stockmen.

As a direct result of the conditions growing out of the investigation of the Pennsylvania shipment, the word came Thursday from the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture, ordering the entire states of New York and Pennsylvania to be quarantined. Pennsylvania's state authorities have declared a quarantine against New York state and Commissioner Pearson, of the department of agriculture of this state, has ordered that a strict quarantine be placed on five counties in western New York, namely, Erie, Niagara, Orleans, Wyoming and Genesee.

Animals infected with the foot and mouth disease have been discovered in each of these counties by government inspectors who have been at work for over a week. Practically all the cases, it is said, have been traced back to Buffalo.

Chief Melvin of the Washington bureau has been here in charge of the crusade to stamp out the disease, and under him are working a score of inspectors from the federal bureau of animal industry.

The federal quarantine will apply to all cattle in this state and Pennsylvania and no one is prepared to say how long it will last. Over 200 men will be put to work to-day in the East Buffalo yards, disinfecting every inch of ground. This work will take at least three weeks. The state quarantine will be very strict.

There were 80 animals in the two carloads of yearlings which caused the trouble. They came from the west, but the exact points from which they were assembled have not been learned. Dr. Wende, chief inspector in the Buffalo branch of the federal bureau of animal industry, has a clue that they came from Michigan and he has started for there to follow it up.

Albany, N. Y.—Prompt measures to fight a threatened epidemic in this state of foot and mouth disease are being taken by the state department of agriculture following the receipt of reports that the disease had obtained a footing at 12 points in Erie and Niagara counties.

It is supposed the disease was brought to this state through the Buffalo stock yards.

It is thought that the poisons thrown off by afflicted animals have been transmitted to other healthy beasts through barnyard birds, principally sparrows, and Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture Flanders on Thursday asked the state forest, fish and game department if a permit to poison sparrows in infected territory could be secured. He was told that if it could be demonstrated with reasonable certainty that sparrows were agents of transmission of the disease, the fish and game protectors would not interfere in a warfare against them.

The outbreak of the disease in Pennsylvania seems of a grave nature. Its first appearance was about a week ago in the counties of Columbia, Montour, Northumberland and Union, and on November 12 Secretary Wilson placed a rigid quarantine over those counties. Dr. Leonard Pearson, state veterinarian of Pennsylvania, worked with a force of assistants to prevent a spread of the disease, but they were unable to cope with the situation.

A Huge Deal in Tobacco.

Louisville, Ky.—The big deal between the American Tobacco Co. and the Burley Tobacco society for the 1906 and part of the 1907 crops of tobacco, which has been hanging fire for weeks, was closed here Thursday. The price agreed on in the transaction, said to be the largest of its kind ever put through, is an average of 20½ cents for the 1906 crop and 17 cents per pound for the 1907 product. The deal involves nearly 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco held in the pool by the Burley Tobacco society.

Campaign Fund Amounted to $1,500,000

New York City. — A campaign fund of $1,500,000 contributed to the national Republican committee in the recent campaign will be shown when the list of contributors is filed at Albany next Monday. There are 15,000 names on the list.

Woman Convicted of Murder.

Sioux City, Ia.—Mrs. Mary Harbour, accused of the murder of Miss Rose Adams, her foster daughter, was on Thursday found guilty of murder in the second degree.

TELLS HOW HE GOT A START

J. D. ROCKEFELLER TELLS ABOUT EARLY DAYS OF STANDARD OIL.

He Testifies in the Suit Brought Against the Standard by the Government.

New York City.—Relating his story with the air of a gentleman engaging a host of friends with incidents of days long past, John D. Rockefeller, president of the Standard Oil Co., though for nearly ten years retired from the active cares of company direction, for over two hours on Wednesday reviewed the history of the early oil trade and the development of the first companies that later grew into the present so-called oil trust. Mr. Rockefeller was a witness for the defense in the suit to dissolve the Standard which is being prosecuted by the United States government, and his appearance at the hearings before ex-Judge Franklin Ferris, the referee, brought a large crowd to the customs building.

The head of the oil combine was surrounded by an imposing circle of counsel and when he began his testimony he gazed complacently upon a swarm of newspaper men behind whom pressed close a throng of people that filled the room. Mr. Rockefeller appeared at complete ease and when John G. Milburn, of counsel for the Standard, propounded his first question, the witness spoke out in full tones as if he desired the most distant spectator to hear.

Then in a manner that indicated pleasure at what he was about to tell, Mr. Rockefeller spoke of his start in the oil business and how under adverse conditions that business grew to the proportions of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, with its capitalization of $1,000,000. Mr. Rockefeller's eyes sparkled in reflection on that early financial organization and speaking of its million dollar capitalization with almost boyish enthusiasm, he said:

"It seemed very large to us, who began with only $4,000 in 1862."

During a brief recess Mr. Rockefeller talked to the reporters on the Standard's growth, saying:

"This testimony here to-day brings back to my mind so clearly early days in Cleveland, where we were all friends and neighbors together. How well I remember that day in Cleveland when I went into the bank of T. P. Handy, who afterward became one of my dearest friends. I wanted to borrow money, but I didn't have any collateral nor any one to indorse my note. I told him what I wanted to do with it and then he asked me how much I wanted. 'I need $2,000,' I said, and I got it. To that loan I attribute whatever success I have had in life since."

SAYS HE IS IN THIEF CLASS.

Chas. Francis Adams Declares that Tariff "Stand Patters" are Either Hogs or Thieves.

Washington, D. C.—"To ask us to put aside our business affairs and, at our expense, go to Washington on a desperate mission is asking a little too much, whether the demand comes from the committee or from a president-elect." The above is the substance of a letter addressed by Charles Francis Adams to Representative McCall of Massachusetts and made public by the latter Wednesday in his explanation of the failure of the tariff reformers to present their case to the ways and means committee now considering a revision of the tariff.

Mr. Adams declares that the persons who wish the tariff schedules to remain unchanged either are "thieves or hogs," and admits that he himself belongs to the first class. But he is also a tariff reformer desiring to see every protective schedule swept out of existence. But as a mere citizen he says he would receive from the ways and means committee scarcely a respectful hearing, if any at all, being thus in the position of millions of others.

End of the Peonage Case.

New York City.—Judge Hough in the United States court Wednesday ordered a jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the cases of David E. Harley, an agent for the Florida East Coast railroad, and three employment agents of this city, who were accused of conspiracy to hold workmen in peonage and slavery while the men were building that road. Judge Hough said that the prosecution had failed to show an agreement of minds with evil intent to conspire. The jury returned the verdict as ordered and was discharged.

Whisky Warehouses Burned.

Louisville, Ky.—Two warehouses of the Tom Moore Distilling Co. at Bradstown, in which were stored 15,000 barrels of whisky, were burned Wednesday, entailing a loss of $400,000, fully insured. The loss of prospective revenue tax to the government is $750,000.

A New York Issue of Canal Bonds.

Washington, D. C.—Secretary Cortelyou announced Wednesday that he would receive bids up to the close of business on December 4 next for $30,000,000 Panama canal bonds, to bear 2 per cent. interest.

Is Allowed $25,000 a Year Alimony.

New York City. — Mrs. Howard Gould was allowed $25,000 a year alimony by Justice Bischoff in the supreme court Wednesday. This alimony is allowed pending the decision of Mrs. Gould's suit for divorce.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing a woman dreads more than an operation is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letters.

Mrs. Barbara Base, of Kingman, Kansas, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For eight years I suffered from the most severe form of female troubles and was told that an operation was my only hope of recovery. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has saved my life and made me a well woman."

Mrs. Arthur R. House, of Church Road, Moorestown, N. J., writes: "I feel it is my duty to let people know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female troubles, and last March my physician decided that an operation was necessary. My husband objected, and urged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to-day I am well and strong."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Western Canada the Pennant Winner

"The Last Best West"

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The government of Canada now gives to every actual settler 160 acres of wheat-growing land free and an additional 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. The 300,000 contented American settlers making their homes in Western Canada is the best evidence of the superiority of that country. They are becoming rich, growing from 25 to 50 bushels wheat to the acre; 60 to 110 bushels oats and 45 to 60 bushels barley, besides having splendid herds of cattle raised on the prairie grass. Dairying is an important industry.

The crop of 1908 still keeps Western Canada in the lead. The world will soon look to it as its food-producer.

"The thing which most impressed us was the magnitude of the country that is available for agricultural purposes."—National Editorial Correspondence, 1908.

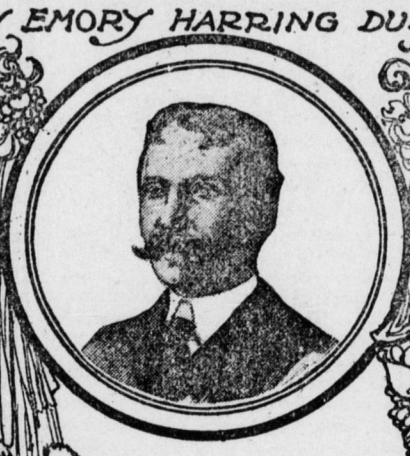
THANKSGIVING 1621 to 1908

BY EMORY HARRING DUNLAP



LANDING FROM THE MAY FLOWER AT PLYMOUTH ROCK

THE FIRST INDIAN VISITOR TO PLYMOUTH

GOING TO CHURCH HAD COMPLICATIONS

THANKSGIVING and its story is one of the best known and cherished of the American institutions and lore. It never grows old. The little children still thrill at the recital of the bravery of the Plymouth colony. They exult in the prowess of Miles Standish and his brave boy soldiers and they weep over the hardships that the little boys and girls endured exiled in a foreign land. They laugh in merry glee at the first Thanksgiving dinner with its Indian guests. Young people all love the sweet story of Priscilla, the Puritan maiden. Men and women turning a moment in busy lives to glance backward feel a deep satisfaction in the knowledge of the bravery of their fathers who laid the foundations of the nation and who left them a heritage of sturdy courage and democratic ideals.

The traditions of a country never grow old. They have a perennial youth. Stories and traditions become embodied in the epochs of a nation's life and literature from which the latter generations find sustenance. The tales of the brave men of a country, of their sacrifices, and noble deeds of courage, of loyalty and of strength, come to be a part of the nation's thought and its life. They form ideals toward which the character of the community grows and develops. The story of Thanksgiving is a simple one from many viewpoints; but it is so rich in substance that its inspiration is felt to-day all over the United States.

In England the Puritans were unhappy. They separated from the Church of England and held services in private houses or in the open air. These were called Separatists. They were arrested as law-breakers, and fined or imprisoned. About the time the Jamestown colony was planted, a band of these Separatists went to Leyden, in Holland, where they could enjoy freedom of worship. They stayed there 12 years.

These Pilgrims were mainly farmers, and had difficulty to earn their living in the Dutch cities or gardens. Their children were obliged to attend Dutch schools, and were fast losing the use of the English tongue. The sons of the Pilgrims entered the Dutch army and navy, and the young people began to intermarry. The Pilgrims feared that if they stayed in Holland any longer, their families would become Dutch. They decided that they would like to go to America. They sent two men to get permission of the London company to settle on its land. The company was glad to get them for colonists, and gave them a charter of privileges.

The race spirit had cried against its loss by absorption. The sturdy English men desired to keep intact their language and their racial characteristics and worship God as they deemed right.

It was in December that they made a landing on the coast of Massachusetts.

There were men with hoary hair
Amidst that pilgrim band—
Why had they come to wither there,
Away from their childhood's land?

There was woman's fearless eye,
Lit by her deep love's truth;
There was manhood's brow serenely high,
And the fiery heart of youth.

What sought they thus afar?
Bright jewels of the mine?
The wealth of seas, the spoils of war?—
They sought a faith's pure shrine!

Ay, call it holy ground,
The soil where first they trod;
They left unstain'd what there they found—
Freedom to worship God.

It was a terrible winter they lived through unused to the climate away from the comforts of civilization.

Better times came. The summer was a fruitful one and autumn saw the little colony with stores that would keep them through the coming winter. The barbarous foes of the west had not molested them, although they lived there, a tiny colony, shut in from friends by the vast sea to the east and the forest primeval stretching to the north, west and south of them. They were thankful for their blessings and so set aside a day in which to express their gratitude to the Good All Father. They were not rich in worldly goods, but their hearts reached out to all humanity, and so on that feast day they invited to their table Massasoit, an Indian chief, and 40 of his braves. It was a great undertaking for that small group, yet they gave from their hearts in the fullness of their gratitude. This sweet and wholesome spirit has become a part of the national celebration. Thanksgiving is a day of festivity, of family reunion, of feasting and of gladness.

An atmosphere of satisfaction pervades it. The analytical mind can but make comparisons of to-day and yesterday and speculate on the morrow. That mind sees not the great catastrophes that fell upon the nation have passed by. It sees the onward trend of all things. It sees that for every hardship there is an alleviating condition, and so courage is taken afresh. This same mind counts its blessings and turns to the less fortunate.

There is no doubt regarding the satisfaction the Pilgrim fathers had in entertaining their Indian guests. They were expressing their gratitude by helping others and making other lives brighter. This spirit is the patron saint of Thanksgiving.

Many people feel that their mite is small. It counts for little compared with the needs! That is true, no doubt. But calculate the mites of the city of Milwaukee, and imagine the joy of the unfortunate. The Associated Charities knows of many families where a Thanksgiving dinner would bring joy to the hearts of little children, and hope to the sick. The mites would count there. One dinner will make a family happy and that organization knows of many places where there can be no Thanksgiving dinner, without the contributions of the open-hearted and those imbued with the spirit of the Pilgrims' Thanksgiving. Not far from Milwaukee are the sick poor, unfortunate men and women, through no fault of their own in many cases, who are ill and suffering, cared for by the county. A donation of fruit or delicacies, of magazines, or of flowers to brighten their sad lives, would not leave the donor poorer, but would bring into some life a sweetness of restored confidence in humanity.

Not far away are the orphan asylums, where little children bereft of parents still love all of those things that a father's or mother's thoughtfulness bestows, but which must sometimes be denied in an institution where there are many needs to be filled.

The old men and women at the Little Sisters of the Poor, Home for the Aged, appreciate the diversion of Thanksgiving day in their days of life's decline. The day can be made brighter for them, too, if the people of Milwaukee are thoughtful. The list is a long one where the mites may be sent and where they will help to make lives a little brighter. There is the Catholic Boys' home, the Home for the Friendless, the Lutheran Home for the Feebleminded, the Milwaukee House of Mercy, the Wisconsin Home and Farm School, the Flower Mission, the Rescue Mission, the Children's Free hospital, the Women's hospital, Aid society and others. Each family knows of some other family for whom the day can be made happier.

How much small things count is exemplified by an episode that took place in a poorer part of the city recently. It was told by a little girl. She leaned against her teacher's knee and said naively:

"You know, teacher, that the man that lives down our alley was arrested. He had a little girl like me. They took him away and he can't come home for a long time and bring them any money. That little girl she did not have any dress, only a torn one with big holes in it, and she would get cold through the holes. I had two dresses. So my mother she gave one of them to that little girl so she could go to school, because it is so cold at home. Nights, after I go to bed, my mother she washes out my dress so it will be clean the next day."

The spirit of Thanksgiving that has come to us from our ancestors of old Plymouth has permeated through our national life and is so well and so beautifully manifested in the episode of the poor woman and her mite.

The influence of that first Thanksgiving has spread over the land and here in Milwaukee it will be manifested by a generous outpouring from the grateful hearts. Do not hesitate because you have so little to give. That little may mean much to him who has nothing, and think of the accumulation of little. Let us be worthy of the institution of our fathers.

THANKSGIVING SPIRIT

By HELEN BRUCE WALLACE

WHAT is the Thanksgiving spirit we bring to our holiday?

We know what it was in the good old days when savages lurked and famine stalked for the undoing of men and women who, tucked away in crevices among the ancestral cradles, candlesticks and tankards that cumbered the Mayflower, were finally dumped on an inhospitable shore.

We know what it is aimed to be.

But what in reality it is, this spirit that is supposed to run rampant on the last Thursday of November?

How many Americans even remember the origin of the holiday and the purpose to which it was dedicated, much less even sum up their blessings, individual and national?

We've had merry Thanksgivings given over to pumpkin pie, turkey and catching up broken or stretched family ties; we've had frivolous Thanksgivings when we have shouted ourselves hoarse and run the risk of pneumonia for our favorite football hero, or, have laughed and cried with the rest of the holiday keeping matinee throng; we've had sad Thanksgivings when loneliness has caught us in her grip and the memories of brighter days have seared our quivering hearts; but who of us has had a thankful Thanksgiving?

Not many of us, if we would be honest enough to confess it.

Yet why not?

It is what the day is for—to take stock of our blessings and give credit for them.

Who of us is so down in our luck as to be blessingless? Surely in 365 long days there have been a few when something good has come our way.

If there have been then it is only good manners, if nothing else, to make acknowledgment of them.

Somehow most of us are better mathematicians when we reckon our woes than when our blessings are computed.

No adding machine is necessary to get at the sum total of our misfortunes. We multiply with lightning rapidity the times our friends have failed us, our business has come a cropper, or our health has gone to the bad.

An hour of toothache makes more impression than a year without the dentist; one stock that drops will cause more agony of mind than a twelvemonth of inflation gives pleasure; a slight will rankle where a kindness is forgotten.

We can see how they, poor hungry, half-frozen terror-stricken Puritans had much to be thankful for; but if they had the Indian, we have the railroads to mutilate us.

If we haven't found any causes for Thanksgiving heretofore, it is for the good of our souls to make a systematic hunt. Rest assured it will not be unavailing.

It will make new women of us if we once learn to reckon our mercies. There is no greater sweetener of the disposition and smoother of the tangles of life, than to think on the things we have to make us happy.

If we would grow into sour, disgruntled women with whole baskets of chips on our shoulders and a bunch of grievances to make us the terror of our acquaintances, let us acquire the habit of thinking all the world better off in blessings than we are.

The Thanksgiving spirit need not, nay, should not be limited to one day once a year. Spread it over 365 days, and throw in the nights, but make Thursday, the 26th, a gala day of thankfulness when the accumulated mercies of many months will be summed up and gratefully acknowledged.

Gratitude is expensive, or should be, so the direct result of the true Thanksgiving spirit is to pass the mercies along.

From our store of blessings some scraps should be culled for those less favored. The lonely, the sick in the hospitals, those to whom Thanksgiving joys are unknown all should come in for a share of our attention, that their day may be made brighter and they, too, have a chance to reckon their causes of Thanksgiving.

ISLES OF THE BLEST.

Western Ireland has been excited over a particularly clear mirage seen near Ballyconnelly, a town on the wild Connemara coast.

The spectacle of a beautifully situated small town, with buildings of different sizes and varying styles of architecture, was seen rising out of the sea apparently about six or seven miles westward. Hundreds gathered to witness the sight, which was visible from three until six p. m., when it gradually vanished.

Many old legends of Irish folklore speak of a mystic land far away in the western ocean, variously known as Tirnanoge, Hoy-Brazil, Moy Mell and the Land of the Ever Young.

In the book of the Dun Cow, preserved in the Royal Irish academy in Dublin—a volume more than 1,000 years old—the story is told how Prince Connla of the Golden Hair, son of King Conn of the Hundred Battles, was carried off by fairies to the Isles of the Blest.

Standing on the shore with his nobles and his royal father, Prince Connla saw a boat of shining crystal moving toward him. When the glittering vessel touched the shore, a fairy, like a human being, richly dressed, came forth, and addressing Connla endeavored to entice him to accompany her.

At last the fairy chanted a few stanzas like the Lorelei of German legend. Bewitched by her sweet voice, Prince Connla stepped into the magic boat, and, carried from sight in an instant, was never seen again in his native land.—New York Sun.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Emporium Powder Mfg. Company, held November 24th, 1908, the following minute was adopted on the death of the Hon. Leonard Taggart Treasurer and a Director of said Company:

In the death of the HON. LEONARD TAGGART, Emporium loses one of its foremost citizens.

As Treasurer and a Director of this Company, he was a wise counselor, an earnest worker, a steadfast advocate of the highest business honor and a strong factor in the promotion of its business welfare, the trust imposed upon him was performed with sacred fidelity.

In his intercourse with the Company, its officials and its employees, Mr. Taggart's conception of duty never exacted tribute from the the humblest laborer, or obnoxiously intruded his ideas upon his peers.

He was the ideal man and citizen, and as an officer of the Company, won the respect and admiration of every member; as a token of respect of his memory be it

Resolved, That in the death of the Hon. Leonard Taggart, this Company loses an able officer, a conscientious worker for its welfare; a wise counselor and a man whose conception of duty sacredly recognized the rights of others.

That we appreciate the the great loss to hi family in this bereavement, and extend our pro found sympathy.

That we publish this paragraph in the local papers, hand a copy to the family of the deceased, inscribe the same upon the minutes of the Company and drape the office for the usual period

CAMERON.

H. W. Mitchell, dentist, Emporium.

Agent P. D. Leary visited Emporium between trains Monday evening.

D. B. Peterson and C. B. Potter butchered several fine hogs Saturday.

Mrs. D. B. Peterson attended the funeral of L. Taggart at Emporium Monday.

Wm. Wykoff and wife left Monday morning for Hicks Run where they will stay this winter.

The many friends of Mrs. Chester Potter will be pleased to learn that this lady is rapidly recovering from her recent illness and it is expected she will soon be around again.

Alex. Schwab visited his family over Sunday and returned to his work at Hicks Run Monday.

Mrs. Vallis, of Calder, visited her sister Mrs. Page, Monday.

Relief Agent P. D. Leary visited his home at Ridgway, Sunday.

Mr. Schneider, who has been confined to his home with lumbrgo, is much better and soon expects to resume work at the station.

Wm. Fox was a business caller at Drittwood Monday.

Mr. Coyle, relief operator of Renovo, relieved E. D. Krape for one day, Wednesday.

Mrs. Chas. A. Dice, of Sterling Run, called on her mother, Mrs. M. L. Yocum, Saturday.

D. E. Spangler and wife, of Sterling Run, were pleasant callers on John Schwab and wife, one day last week.

Mrs. Yocum who has been quite ill is better. Dr. Bush is attending her.

Mrs. Summerson visited her daughter, Mrs. Schwab, last Friday.

Wm. Greenarch, Sr., who has been sick for several weeks, is again able to be about.

John Yocum purchased a valuable bull dog from A. E. Lord this week. "Ally" says since election he does not need a watch dog.

John Schwab, our up-to-date merchant, took a day off Monday and hitched up his brother's valuable two year old colt and everything went along smoothly. John is a fine horseman.

Capt. Wesley Barr, of Huntley, passed through town Friday with a load of Republican beef on his way to Emporium. Capt. had a few minutes to spare to talk polities to a few of our hunters.

The wager which was made between E. F. Comley and E. D Krape (a wheelbarrow ride from the Valley House to the New Warner at Emporium) on the Presidential election was called off owing to the illness of Mr. Krape. Comley and the landlords are all happy. Comley says it saves him a sore back, and the landlords say they can now sell that grease.

LOUISE.

FIRST FORK.

W. H. Mitchell, Dentist, Emporium.

Fred Williams and Chancey Logue opened up a "Hunters Resort" a day before the season opened, and have nine hunters in camp. They are three or four miles from anywhere, and so far there has been no casualties reported among the hunters, and I might say none among the deer either. It looks as though the old Bucks were "onto the racket" and had knocked off their horns early, to fool the hunters, as they have seen a good many deer and none with horns on. Several batches of hunters have left this section already, disgusted with their luck.

John Cross was burried on Kettle Creek last Friday, having died of typhoid fever. He was a son-in-law of Wm. Swanks, of this place, and leaves a wife and one child about two years old.

W. W. Wykoff, who has been at the hospital in Williamsport for several weeks, is better and is expected home soon.

Wesley Burlingame got a little spike buck, which is the only deer we have heard of being killed in this section so far this season.

Le Grand Wykoff sold a small bear to Joe Burlingame on Sunday; for his hunters to take home with them, I suppose.

Jim Counsel, of Sinnamahoning, is up on his annual hunt, and is staying at the camp.

Mrs. Wesley Berfield, who has been very sick is some better at time of writing.

M. J. Logue and wife visited friends in Potter county a day or two last week.

Miss Lilliam Wetham, who has been visiting at Mrs. Nelson's the past week, has returned to Renovo.

A. W. Smith was a business caller at First Fork Saturday.

Nothing doing at W. R. Smith's Sanitorium at present. Everybody is cured. Let the good work go on.

Pennsy Fireman, Thomas H. Roberts, while returning from W. R. Smith's residence, about seven o'clock Sunday evening, fell into the bridge near the water tank. His chin was severely cut and his watch was broken. He is being treated by W. R. Smith, T. N., and at this writ. ing is resting comfortably. He also had a tooth pulled just before the accident and seems to be in hard luck at present.

Telegrapher J. W. Robinson, of Emporium, has been assigned to the third trick at HY Tower, in place of T. F. Carroll, who resigned to go into the dynamite business.

Pennsy Bridge Foreman, L. C. Summerson, secured a 240 pound bear Monday in Dents Run and brought it to Sterling Run on No. 3 the same day. It is rumored that Uncle Jim Mason has also secured a fine buck deer and a bear in the same localty.

J. F. Sullivan and wife were Emporium callers Sunday evening.

Darius and Homer Ives were business callers in Sinnamahoning Saturday.

W. H. Logue and 3. J. Collins were business callers in Drittwood Saturday.

A. W. Smith and sister Emmalyne, who have been managing the "Willowdale farm" during the past season will move to Emporium this week, where Mr. Smith has accepted a position in the dynamite works.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Emporium Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity, they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. Frank Mundy, W. Fourth St, Emporium, Pa., says: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from L. Taggart's drug store, I am feeling much better. My kidneys were very weak, the secretions passing too frequently and I suffered from a dull, nagging backache and splitting headaches. Sharp pains would dart through the small of my bark and at times my feet and hands would swell. Doan's Kidney Pills regulated the kidney secretions and drove away the pains and aches in my back and head I cheerfully recommend this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Mission in Emmanuel Church.

EIGHT DAYS' PREACHING BY THE REV. REGINALD S. RADCLIFFS.

A series of special services, commonly known as a Mission, will be held in Emmanuel Church during the eight days beginning, Sunday, Nov. 29, and ending Sunday, Dec. 6. The preacher will be the Rev. Mr. Redcliffs, of Ridgway, who for twelve years was Archdeacon of Central Pennsylvania. Everybody is cordially invited to the services and is asked to speak of them to his friends.

Sunday services (Nov. 29 and Dec. 6): 8 a. m, Holy Communion; 10:30 a. m., Holy Communion and Sermon; 3:00 p. m., a service to which a special invitation is cordially extended to members of Fraternal Orders, including the G. A. R, and to sister Orders. 7:30 p. m., evening prayer and sermon

Week days: 9:00 a. m., prayer service; 7:30 p. m., prayer service and address.

Collect for the Sunday next before Advent: "Stir up, we beseech Thee, O Lord, the wills of Thy faithful people; that they plenteously bringing forth the fruit of good works may by Thee be plenteously rewarded, through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Rapidly Failing.

ACTUAL STARVATION.

Mrs. M. A. Rockwell Gives Facts Regarding Dyspepsia.

Although Indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

Dieting cannot cure Dyspepsia. If we refuse every article of food that disagrees wiih us, before long we have nothing left, and find ourselves chronic dyspeptics.

We can cure Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee a cure, and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to everyone who will use it who, is not perfectly satisfied with the result which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here in Emporium, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of this offer.

We want everyone in Emporium who is troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and get a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. They are very pleasant to take; they soothe the irritable stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, promote a healthy and natural bowel action, immediately relieve nausea and all stomach irritation, produce perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation, and promote nutrition.

A 25c package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two large sizes which we will sell for 45c and 89c. Mrs. M. A. Rockwell, Emporium, Pa.

Sores, and Itching Eczema—Doctor Thought an Operation Necessary —Cuticura's Efficacy Proven.

"I am now 80 years old, and three years ago I was taken with an attack of piles (hemorrhoids), bleeding and protruding. The doctor said the only help for me was to go to a hospital and be operated on. I tried several remedies for months but did not get much help. During this time sores appeared which changed to a terrible itching eczema. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, injecting a quantity of Cuticura Ointment with a Cuticura Suppository Syringe. It took a month of this treatment to get me in a fairly healthy state and then I treated myself once a day for three months and, after that, once or twice a week. The treatments I tried took a lot of money, and it is fortunate that I used Cuticura. J. H Henderson, Hopkinton, N. Y., Apr 26, 1907."

FUN FOR "HAPPY COUPLE."

Modern Wedding Described with Possibly Slight Exaggeration.

The young pair had so many friends that the police were quite unable to cope with the situation. The bride was headed up in a barrel and thrown into the river, while the groom was bound and gagged and suspended by his feet from a tall tree.

At this point the military was called out and arrived at double quick just in time to save the baggage from being pasted over with insulting placards.

A number of shot were exchanged.

At a late hour the city was reported quiet and the authorities, though not denying the popularity of the high contracting parties, were confident that there would be no more violence. —Puck.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SERIAL STORY

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

(Copyright, 1908, by W. G. Chapman.)

SYNOPSIS.

The Escapade opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed, just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy. The attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecily and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle. Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at two a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage met with an accident. She and Debbie then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America. Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lords Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit. Seton rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit. Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Ellen and Seton were also headed by different routes. Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her. Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed. Seton overtook the fugitives near Portsmouth, but his craft ran aground, just as capture was imminent. Ellen won the chase by boarding American vessel and foiling her pursuers. Carrington and Strathgate, thrown together by former's wrecking of latter's vessel, engaged in an impromptu duel, neither being hurt. A war vessel, commanded by an admiral friend of Seton, then started out in pursuit of the women fugitives, Seton confessing love for Debbie. Flagship Britannia overtook the fugitives during the night. The two women escaped by again taking to the sea in a small boat. Lord Carrington is ordered to sea with his ship but refuses to go until after meeting Strathgate in a duel. They fight in the grounds of Lord Blythedale's castle. Encounter is watched by Ellen and Debbie who have reached land and are in hiding.

"Have you got everything ready, Dr. Nevinson?" asked the earl.

"Everything, my lord," replied the doctor, gravely. "I hope, however, that you gentlemen will give me little to do."

Strathgate laughed again.

"If it depends on me, doctor, you'll have nothing to do but certify to a death."

"I didn't mean it that way, my lord," said the doctor, gravely.

"But I do," asserted Strathgate, turning away.

Every word of the conversation had been heard by Ellen and Deborah. The whole situation was now clear to them both. This was to be a duel. Carrington and Strathgate were to meet. Strathgate's deadly purpose was evident from his grim remark to the surgeon. Ellen could not doubt but that Carrington shared the same ruthless feeling to the full. He was coming to battle about her. Her heart leaped at first at the thought and then contracted like a lump of ice at the possibility of disaster and death which lay before the man she loved.

Her first impulse was to rise, dash into the clearing and denounce Strathgate, but a second thought assured her of the folly of that purpose. Those men were bent on fighting. They would only fight the harder and more fiercely if she interfered. She would simply be removed from the scene of action and the duel would go on.

The situation was an intolerable one whichever way she turned, whatever she did. That she should lie quiet in a thicket and watch her husband fight for his life was unbearable. That she should burst out and interrupt them and then simply be removed and the battle be waged the more fiercely was also unendurable. Yet, she would have chosen the latter course had it not come across her mind like a flash of intuition, that her appearance at that juncture would probably greatly agitate her husband, and that his chance for life would be worse in that he would be less cool than Strathgate. She had sense enough to see that Strathgate would welcome her arrival, and how easily he could turn it to his own advantage by claiming, in spite of any protest she might make, that she was there by her own contrivance and at Strathgate's request.

She dug her feet into the ground and locked her teeth in anguish. The sweat stood out on her brow. But there was nothing to do but lie still and keep watch.

It was Debbie who broke the silence by approaching her ear and whispering:

"Lord Strathgate is going to fight a duel with Lord Carrington. Let us go out and stop it."

"We can't," answered Ellen. "'Tis impossible."

"Are you going to lie here and watch them kill each other?" asked Deborah, to whom the situation did not present itself as it did to Ellen.

"There's nothing else I can do," returned Ellen. "Don't you see if they were here, they would simply take us away and continue the fight, and if we came out now, it would appear as if we had been with Lord Strathgate. It would unsettle Bernard so—"

"Oh!" said Deborah, turning to look closely at her wretched comrade.

What she saw moved her to instant pity. She drew closer to Ellen and reached her arm around the other's neck.

"My poor girl!" she murmured, kissing her softly.

"There's only one thing we can do, Debbie," whispered Ellen.

"What's that?"

"We can pray that no harm will come to my lord."

Her under lip trembled piteously as she buried her face in her hands. It was a strange prayer—what strange prayers we make in hours of distress!—an appeal to God that one of the two men about to battle for life might be spared. There was no thought of the necessary inference from the prayer, and in Ellen's distracted mind she did not even think to pray that the duel itself might be stopped. She poured out her whole soul in anguished petition that Carrington, whom she loved, might come to no hurt, and in that petition with less fervency, but with true Puritan zeal, Debbie unhesitatingly joined. What would Elder Brewster say, she thought, if he could see her now praying for one duelist, when both, in accordance with her iron creed, would be equally guilty?*

The course of the prayers was broken by Blythedale's voice.

"Here they come!" he cried, a note of relief and pleasure in his speech. "Yonder."

He pointed to a carriage slowly making its way across the drive.

"How will they know how to get here?"

"I have stationed men who will fetch them."

"The carriage has stopped. Yes, here they are."

Instantly, as Parkman, followed by Carrington, appeared on the scene, Blythedale lost his languor. Carrington stopped at the edge of the clearing. Strathgate immediately turned and walked to the opposite side. Parkman and Blythedale ceremoniously approached each other. All the punctilios of such an occasion were most scrupulously regarded. The gentlemen doffed their hats and bowed most profoundly. Then they chatted awhile in the gravest and most solemn manner.

"Are You Going to Lie Here and Watch them Kill Each Other?"

"I suppose," said Blythedale, more because it was proper and customary than because he had the slightest idea that it could be brought about, "that no accommodation of this quarrel is possible?"

"None, my lord," returned Parkman.

"Your principal, of course, is not disposed to apologize for the insulting epithets he applied to mine," continued Blythedale.

"It is so far out of the question," answered Parkman, "that if he had a chance, he would repeat them with such added emphasis as reflection might enable him to give."

"Very well," returned Blythedale.

"And I am instructed by my principal," continued Parkman, ceremoniously, "to say that no apology of any sort, if he should be pleased to make any, would be entertained by Lord Carrington from Lord Strathgate."

Blythedale laughed.

"That goes without saying," he answered, "but there's no need for us to get embroiled in the affair personally, Parkman."

The two were old acquaintances.

"Certainly not, Blythedale. So we had better proceed to business. You've brought swords, I see."

"A pair of my own. Andrew Ferrara steel. They have been used a great many times in little affairs of honor like this, and there isn't a hair's breadth of difference between them. Still, you may have your choice."

Parkman took the two swords and turned to Carrington. The latter examined them carefully, tested them, weighed them, and finally selected one. Parkman returned with the other, which he handed to Blythedale.

"I suppose," said Blythedale, "there's nothing now but to let them go at it."

"Nothing," answered Parkman.

"You will give the word, Parkman, and we will both see fair play."

"Very well," answered Parkman. "I take it we are to interpose the moment one or the other is wounded."

"By no means," said Carrington, who had drawn nearer and who had heard this last suggestion. "It is my desire that you will not interfere so far as I am concerned until one or the other of us is—incapable of continuing the fight. Unless, of course, Lord Strathgate desires different arrangements."

"Blythedale," said Strathgate, sharply, "you may say that Lord Strathgate is entirely satisfied with any proposition which may be made."

"Very well, gentlemen," said Blythedale, much amazed at this very unusual interference of the principals in an affair of this kind. "You may take your positions. You will first take off your coats, waistcoats and shoes. It is a mere matter of form, but I shall have to inspect you, Lord Carrington, and Lieutenant Parkman will have the same privilege with my principal."

At the word the two men divested themselves of their coats, swords and waistcoats, which Dr. Nevinson kindly picked up and piled on the edge of the clearing out of the way. They kicked off their shoes, too, and stood forth in their stocking feet, in shirts and trousers. Blythedale rapidly ran his hand across the body of Carrington to see that he had on no illegal garment which might turn or ward a blow.

"You have a locket there, my lord," he said, stopping in his search.

"I had forgotten it," said Carrington, turning crimson.

He reached his hand up, unbuttoned his collar, drew forth the locket, and handed it to Dr. Nevinson. It contained a picture of his wife. Ellen recognized it as one she had given him in the early days of their married life. Parkham's inspection of the other combatant had developed nothing.

"I presume," said Strathgate, with an evil laugh, "that the victor takes the locket and the lady."

"This," began Parkman, his face flushing at the insult, "is most unusual and improper, and I appeal to you, Lord Blythedale."

"You're right, Parkman. Damn ye, Strathgate!" cried Blythedale, hot and angry, "I never heard of such conduct. Another remark like that and I refuse to act in your behalf. You have your man where you want him, before your sword's point. You can let that talk for you in the future."

"Give yourself no concern as to what Lord Strathgate says, Parkman," said Carrington, coolly. "He hasn't much time to talk, and I'm disposed to let him enjoy his remaining opportunities to the full."

How grand and noble looked my lord in crouching Ellen's eyes then!

Strathgate did not seem quite so pleased with himself as he had been when he made the unlucky remark.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" said Blythedale, looking from one to the other.

"Ready!" said Strathgate, stepping lightly forward with upraised sword.

Carrington said nothing, but grimly came to position.

"My principal desires no saluting," said Parkman, stepping between the two men.

"Very good, we are satisfied," returned Blythedale. "Lieutenant Parkman will give the word 'Engage,' and after that ye may go at it when ye will."

Blythedale drew his own sword and stepped near the two combatants, facing each other for all the world like two tigers waiting to spring at each other's throats. Parkman also whipped out his sword and took position opposite Blythedale. The doctor straightened up and peered curiously at the little group.

Ellen's heart stopped its beating. She and Deborah lay side by side as close as they could get staring through the leaves.

Parkman looked from one to the other. Strathgate had a little smile upon his lips. He bore himself gallantly. There was no denying that. His air was one of indifference, as if he were slightly bored by the proceeding, although his eyes were shining. Carrington, on the contrary, was very pale. His lips were compressed, his brow wrinkled. He looked the personification of determination and in his eyes, too, was a light.

The two men stood up, each with his sword turned downward, the point resting on his right foot, which was slightly advanced and at right angles to the left foot. Each man had his left hand behind his back.

Parkman drew a long breath and cried sharply:

"Engage!"

On the instant two flashes of light split the air. The next moment there was a sharp ring of steel, and the men stood facing each other with knees bent, right arms extended, left arms lifted high and the two blades pressing like stone walls.

TROUBLE WITH MODERN CHILD.

Too Early Made Acquainted with the Pomp of the World.

Miss L. E. Stearns, in her lecture on the "Thankless Child," in Milwaukee, pleaded for children to have time to be children. "I know of a Milwaukee mother who was surprised lately to find that at a birthday party which her daughter (a child of eight) had attended two liveried pages stood at the door to receive the gifts the children brought. The same little girl who was hostess at the party, when in a formal mood, is apt to go [illegible] upon some child of her own age in her mother's carriage, accompanied by a footman and driver, and when she arrives, presents her visiting card before seeing her friend." Miss Stearns compared this complicated existence with that of the great John Ruskin, who had but four toys during his entire childhood, but who spent many enraptured hours with these, and he attributed his taste for architecture to the fact of his blocks, one of the toys, having interested him in building at so early an age.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted — where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

MAKE YOUR APPEAL

to the public through the columns of this paper. With every issue it carries its message into the homes and lives of the people. Your competitor has his store news in this issue. Why don't you have yours? Don't blame the people for flocking to his store. They know what he has.

The Home Paper Gives you the reading matter in which you have the greatest interest—the home news. Its every issue will prove a welcome visitor to every member of the family. It should head your list of newspaper and periodical subscriptions.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

JOB PRINTING We can do the finest class of printing, and we can do that class just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Wedding invitations, letter heads, bill heads, sale bills, statements, dodgers, cards, etc., all receive the same careful treatment—just a little better than seems necessary. Prompt delivery always.

Their First Thanksgiving

By CARLOS BAYARD.

"CAN nothing be done?" asked Caroline anxiously.

Vance Greenway shook his head.

"Not yet, dear," he explained. "I have considered the matter carefully and I think it will be best to wait."

"It won't make any difference in our marriage?" she pleaded.

"We can get married to-morrow," he declared. "I want to go to town and get to work on my own hook."

"There is nothing to prevent," assented the girl. "It is not as though I had a lot of relatives to consult."

"Then let's be married and get out of the way. It will make such a lot of talk," pleaded Vance.

He found when he left the girl that he had not exaggerated. Already the news that David Greenway had disowned his son had spread through the village, and the circumstantial reports of the row which had terminated in the dismissal had gained a wealth of detail in its rapid travel.

David Greenway was the richest man in Greenvale, and Vance had already made rapid advancement in the local bank; an advancement not altogether unconnected with his father's influence as the largest stockholder.

He had resigned his position that morning, and the following day, after a quiet wedding ceremony in the parsonage of the church, he and Carol set out for the city where Vance would start anew.

It was not an easy matter to find a position, even with the recommendation which the cashier of the home bank had given him, but in time Vance found a place, and they settled down to make a home in a tiny flat whose five rooms were scarcely larger than the dining room of the Greenway mansion.

The months sped by all too fast, and even when Vance had earned a raise in salary, and had been advanced to a more responsible position, she would not move.

"We'll save the rest," she declared. "It does seem so cozy here, dear. It's our first home. We shall have much to be thankful for next week."

"That's so," agreed Vance. "By the way, I've got an invitation to Thanksgiving dinner, so don't lay in a turkey."

Carol's face fell. She had been planning to make their first Thanksgiving a notable one, but she tried to smile her satisfaction at Vance's announcement.

Vance would make no explanation other than to say that the invitation came from an old friend, and the evening before the holiday he came home early and helped her pack her prettiest things in a suit case.

Not even when they arrived at the station did he enlighten her as to their destination, but the next morning, as the train neared the old home and she began to catch glimpses of familiar scenes through the frost-traced car windows, the tears came unbidden to her eyes.

As they encountered the curious glances of old acquaintances, she was glad that she had let Vance persuade her to purchase a set of furs. She wanted to look her best for his sake, but she did not realize the attractive picture she made as the sharp breeze brought fresh color to her cheeks and lent sparkle to the brown eyes.

Vance, sitting beside her, clasped his hands over hers.

"We shall have much to be thankful for this first Thanksgiving," he said tenderly. "But most of all I am thankful that you are my wife, dear."

She smiled her answer, too close to tears to speak, but as they turned in at a driveway she found her voice.

"There is some mistake," she cried. "Surely you are not going to your father's."

"Surely we are," he said with a happy laugh. "Do you suppose that any other Thanksgiving dinner would tempt me from our own home?"

"But—you have made up?" she asked.

"We never really quarreled," he explained. "I was dissatisfied at the bank. I wanted to be sure of myself; to know that on my own effort I could make my way. Father and I planned the dramatic scene for the benefit of the public. I did not tell you, for I wanted him to see that it was for myself and not my money that you cared. I was to have a trial for six months. The probation ended last week."

"And you are coming back home to live?" she asked. Vance nodded.

"There is my father waiting to welcome us to our new home," he said. "The honeymoon ends with our Thanksgiving, and dad has a new daughter—the best that ever was—to make him thankful, too."

SOME REMARKS FROM MINNESOTA EDITORS.

What They Think of Western Canada.

A party of editors from a number of cities and towns of Minnesota recently made a tour of Western Canada, and having returned to their homes they are now telling in their respective newspapers of what they saw on their Canadian trip. The West St. Paul Times recalls the excursion of the Minnesota editors from Winnipeg to the Pacific Coast ten years ago. Referring to what has happened in the interval the writer says: "Thousands of miles of new railway lines have been built, and the development of the country has made marvelous strides. Millions of acres, then lying in their wild and untouched state, have since been transferred into grain fields. Towns have sprung up as if by the wand of a magician, and their development is now in full progress. It is a revelation, a record of conquest by settlement that is remarkable."

The Hutchinson Leader characterizes Western Canada as "a great country undeveloped. The summer outing," it says, "was an eye-opener to every member of the party, even those who were on the excursion through Western Canada ten years ago, over considerable of the territory covered this year, being amazed at the progress and advancement made in that short space of time. The time will come when Western Canada will be the bread-basket of the world. It was a delightful outing through a great country of wonderful possibilities and resources."

Since the visit of these editors the Government has revised its land regulations and it is now possible to secure 160 acres of wheat land at $3.00 an acre in addition to the 160 acres that may be homesteaded.

The crops of 1908 have been splendid, and reports from the various districts show good yields, which at present prices will give excellent profits to the farmers.

From Milestone, Saskatchewan, there are reported yields of thirty bushels of spring wheat to the acre, while the average is about 20 bushels. The quality of grain to be shipped from this point will be about 600,000 bushels. Information regarding free lands and transportation will be freely given by the Canadian Government Agents.

WARNED OF THE CYCLONE.

Telephone Just a Few Seconds Ahead of High Wind.

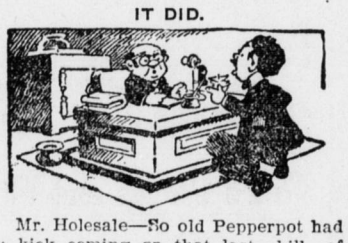
Once upon a time a Kansas zephyr broke loose and meandered about the country, picking up various things. Bill Baumgartner's telephone, 20 miles away, rang:

"Is that you, Bill?" yelled an excited voice.

"Yes. What's the matter?"

"This is Frank. We've got a cyclone down here, and it's headed your way. Look out! I—" Frank's voice broke off suddenly. Bill heard a crash and a sputtering, then all was silence. He gathered up his family and rushed them to a deep ravine. They were just in time to dodge a funnel-shaped cloud that wrecked the house, picked up his barn, two cows, and a couple of miles of fence.—Hampton's Broadway Magazine.

IT DID.



Mr. Holesale—So old Pepperpot had a kick coming on that last bill of goods, eh? Wouldn't that make you sore?

Mr. Litewate (the salesman)—It did me, sir. He kicked me out.

UPWARD START

After Changing from Coffee to Postum.

Many a talented person is kept back because of the interference of coffee with the nourishment of the body.

This is especially so with those whose nerves are very sensitive, as is often the case with talented persons. There is a simple, easy way to get rid of coffee evils and a Tenn. lady's experience along these lines is worth considering. She says:

"Almost from the beginning of the use of coffee it hurt my stomach. By the time I was fifteen I was almost a nervous wreck, nerves all unstrung, no strength to endure the most trivial thing, either work or fun.

"There was scarcely anything I could eat that would agree with me. The little I did eat seemed to give me more trouble than it was worth. I finally quit coffee and drank hot water, but there was so little food I could digest, I was literally starving; was so weak I could not sit up long at a time.

"It was then a friend brought me a hot cup of Postum. I drank part of it and after an hour I felt as though I had had something to eat — felt strengthened. That was about five years ago, and after continuing Postum in place of coffee and gradually getting stronger, to-day I can eat and digest anything I want, walk as much as I want. My nerves are steady.

"I believe the first thing that did me any good and gave me an upward start, was Postum, and I use it altogether now instead of coffee." "There's a Reason."

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

A HINT TO GOLFERS.

The Visitor—What on earth does that chap carry that phonograph round for. Is he dotty?

The Member—No! But he's dumb. So he has that talking machine to give instructions to his caddie or to make a few well chosen remarks in case he fozzles his drive or does anything else annoying.

Her Experience.

Letty was a little colored girl whose chief occupation was the bringing of water from a distant spring. This was very much to her discomfort, for the summons to fill the empty water bucket called her often from her play.

One day her young mistress was giving her a lesson in Bible history, the subject being Noah and the flood.

"Letty," she said, "what did Noah do when he found that the water was all gone?"

Letty, who had been giving scant attention to the story, replied with a sigh:

"I spec' he sent after mo'."

As He Understood It.

Despite the imaginative nature of the child, it has a decided tendency to see things in a literal sense. This is noticeable in the acquiring of language. For instance, little Herbert was pleading to go out of doors to play.

"When I see fit, you shall go," said his mother, decidedly.

This settled the matter, and the little fellow went off to his blocks. In about half an hour he returned, and said:

"Mamma, have you seen him?"

"Seen whom?" replied the lady, utterly in the dark as to his meaning.

"Why, seen Fit."

Too Unkind.

"Didn't you say there was a statesman in your family?" inquired my deaf friend.

"Oh, no," I cried, hastening to correct his peculiar impression; "I merely said that a relative of mine was one of the United States senators from New York."—Bohemian Magazine.

To show a more excellent way is a better plan for correcting faults than fault-finding and criticism.—Helps.

The Best for Four Generations

There is no guess-work, no uncertainty, about this world-famous remedy. Since first prescribed by Dr. D. Jayne 78 years ago it has brought relief and effected cures in millions of cases of disease, and is today known and used in all parts of the world.

DR. D. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT

If you have a Cough or Cold you cannot afford to experiment—you know Jayne's Expectorant to be a reliable remedy. It is also a splendid medicine for Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Croup, Whooping-Cough and Asthma. Get it at your druggist's—in three size bottles, $1.00, 50c. and 25c.

Dr. D. Jayne's Sanative Pills is a thoroughly reliable laxative, purgative, cathartic and stomach tonic.

THE NEWEST MODE.

Susie—What does the new baby at your house look like? Is it nice?

Sammy—Must be the latest thing in babies. Maw's as tickled over it as if it just come from the milliner's.

RHEUMATISM PRESCRIPTION

The increased use of whiskey for rheumatism is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. The following formula is effective: "To one-half pint of good whiskey add one ounce of Toris Compound and one ounce of Syrup Sarsaparilla Compound. Take in tablespoonful doses before each meal and before retiring."

Toris compound is a product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago, but it as well as the other ingredients can be had from any good druggist.

Like a Dream.

A bubble of air in the blood, a drop of water in the brain, and a man is out of gear, his machine falls to pieces, his thought vanishes, the world disappears from him like a dream at morning. On what a spider-thread is hung our individual existence. Fragility, appearance, nothingness. If it were not for our powers of self-detraction and forgetfulness, all the fairy world which surrounds and brands us would seem to us but a broken specter in the darkness—an empty appearance, a fleeting hallucination. Appeared—disappeared—there is the whole history of a man, or of a world, or of an infusoria.—Amiel.

Her Qualifications.

A prominent educator tells of a unique recommendation made by the board of examination with reference to certain questions put to a primary school in an Indiana town.

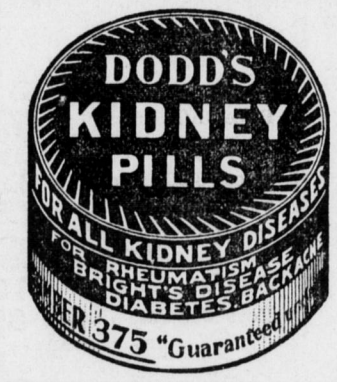
"I desire to recommend Mary Wilson also for a reward of merit," stated one of the board in a note appended to the report. "Being very young, Mary naturally missed the point of all the questions in the examination papers, but her answers were in every instance so ladylike and refined that I think she should be awarded a medal."—Harper's Monthly.

One Way to Cage the Brute.

"I think that's a charming thing for your wife to do," the visitor remarked. "To sit down on the floor and take your shoes off for you after dinner."

"It is," acknowledged her husband, "but there's method in her madness. She does it to keep me at home. She knows that once my shoes are off and my slippers on I'll be too lazy to put the shoes back on and go down town."

The man without a purpose is like a ship without a rudder—a waif a nothing, a noman. Have a purpose in life, have a purpose.—Carlyle.



DEFIANCE STARCH—16 ounces to the package—other starches only 12 ounces—same price and "DEFIANCE" IS SUPERIOR QUALITY.

Mark Twain on Art.

Mark Twain and a party of friends recently went to visit the studio of a young sculptor who is coming rapidly into public notice. One of the pieces which was admired greatly by the majority of the party was the figure of a young woman coiling up her hair. Mark listened to the encomiums in silence, and when urged for an expression of opinion said slowly:

"It is beautiful, but it is not true to nature."

All expressed their surprise at this unexpected verdict and demanded his reasons.

"She ought to have her mouth full of hairpins," replied Tom Sawyer's father.

They Were Not Encouraged.

"I don't see why that young man doesn't propose."

"I think, pa, that the chances of his doing it would be fully as good if you would leave your boxing gloves where he can see them."—Bohemian Magazine.

Life that is unselfishly poured out in living deeds done for others is lifted up and immeasurably exalted.—Robertson.

Mistakes Cost Money

COMPLAINT is that we have over-bought. Our too liberal policy of providing is brought into disgrace.

SENTENCE is that we remove at once, nothing reserved, the surplus and bring to normal condition a top-heavy stock.

PENALTY is that we reduce prices to cost and less than cost, and it is punishment that we must bear. We shut our eyes as to the result and cut prices right and left. The very finest garments, the medium priced ones and the cheaper ones are all included. If ever it paid the purchaser to look, it will pay now. This opportunity is a single instance in the history of clothing selling in the city of Emporium.

WE NEED THE CASH and we are bidding for it with ravenous bait, the alluring bait of unheard of low prices.
